30-Day Retro

Look back on your 30-day roadmap, see what moved and why, and plan your next 30 days around what actually worked.

YOU WALK AWAY WITH
Day 1 versus day 30 numbers, your wins logged, a keep, cut and test list, people to thank, and a top three plus first step for the next 30 days.

USE IT
On day 30 of your roadmap, or the week you finish it, before you start anything new.

Thirty days ago you made today day one. Look back before you plan forward. Be honest. A 'no' with a reason is progress.

Pull your numbers first. If you kept a Weekly Founder Scorecard, start there. If not, use your platform analytics, your DMs and your payment app. Rough numbers are fine. Zeros are fine.

What you set out to do

My roadmap focus

Your track (Start, Build or Grow) and the goal you picked on day 1

Did I hit it?

Yes, partly or no, plus one sentence on why

Your numbers

Number	Day 1	Day 30	Change
Reach (views)
Visits
Leads
Sales
Revenue
Conversations had
Hours per week on the business

The number that moved most

Up or down. What do you think moved it?

> Started at zero? Then anything above zero is your first real data. A zero tells you exactly where to look next.

Wins

List every win, big or small: first conversation, first post, first 'yes', first dollar. Saying it out loud makes it real.

My wins this month

One per line

What worked, what didn't

What worked

The one or two things that moved a number

Why it worked

What did it do that everything before didn't?

What didn't work

You gave it a fair try and nothing moved

What got in the way

Time, fear, tools, too many ideas at once?

My biggest lesson

One sentence you'd tell yourself on day 1

> “Do more of what works, not just more.”
> ELI

Keep, cut, test

Growth is mostly subtraction. Put at least one real thing in the cut column.

Keep (it worked)	Cut (it didn't)	Test (one new thing)

People to thank

No one is self-made. Name who helped, then thank them this week. A text counts.

Who	How they helped	Thanked?

Your next 30 days

Has my stage changed?

New idea, first sale, launched, stuck? If yes, retake the assessment in 127 for a new roadmap.

My first step tomorrow

Small enough to finish in 30 minutes. Put it on your calendar now.

Perspective

Step back from the numbers for two minutes.

Am I still building for the reason I started?

Did I keep time for my faith, rest and the people who matter?

Did I keep every promise I made to a customer?

FILLED EXAMPLE

a lawn care side business

A lawn care side business on the Start track (hypothetical).

Focus: prove people will pay. Goal: 3 paying lawn clients.
Hit it? Partly. 2 paying clients. I started outreach in week 3 instead of week 1.

Numbers, day 1 to day 30:
Reach: 0 to 1,900 (flyers and neighborhood group posts).
Visits: 0 to 60 (booking page).
Leads: 0 to 9. Sales: 0 to 2. Revenue: $0 to $180.
Conversations had: 0 to 14. Hours per week: 3 to 6.

Wins: first interview, first flyer run, first paid mow, first referral.
What worked: knocking on doors with a flyer right after mowing a neighbor's lawn.
Why: people saw the finished lawn next door. The proof was right there.
What didn't: posting in a city-wide group. 2 replies, 0 sales.
What got in the way: waiting until the flyer looked perfect.
Biggest lesson: talk to people where they can see the work.

Keep: door knocking after every job. Cut: city-wide group posts. Test: a referral card for every client.
Thank: my first client, who sent his neighbor. My sister, who designed the flyer.

Stage changed? Yes, first sale. Retaking the assessment.
Top three: 1) 5 paying clients, moves sales. 2) Knock on 40 doors, moves leads. 3) A referral card for every client, moves leads.
First step tomorrow: print 50 flyers.
Perspective: still building to pay for school without debt. Missed two family dinners, so jobs move to Saturday mornings.

Next step

Retake the assessment in 127 to get your next 30-day roadmap. Builders: turn this top three into a full quarter with 90-Day Priorities.

Make today day one.
